Several Chinese academics had challenged the official data and submitted alternative estimates of forest loss. India has lost an estimated 54.4 million hectares of forest, a sharp increase from the 24.2 million hectares or 50 per cent of its forest cover in 2001, according to a report on India's forest policy released on Thursday. The massive forest cover loss is likely to lower the country's future agricultural production by up to 6 per cent, according to the report. The report has several alternative estimates of forest cover loss. It said that 44.7 million hectares, including 12.5 million hectares of degraded forest, was lost between 2001 and 2015. India has 38.6 million hectares of standing and 36.3 million hectares of fallen trees. Of the 35.7 million hectares of standing trees, 44 per cent was primary forest, 21 per cent was secondary forest and 25 per cent was degraded or disturbed forest. The report, which was released by forest minister Prakash Javadekar, said that half of the net primary forest and 72 per cent of the net secondary forest had been lost. While the primary forest loss rate was 13.95 hectare per year, that of secondary forest was 1.93 hectare per year. Several Chinese academics had challenged the official data and submitted alternative estimates of forest loss. They said India lost between 61 and 114 million hectares of forest between 1961 and 2011. The massive forest cover loss is likely to lower the country's future agricultural production by up to 6 per cent

Neoplastic invasion of the larynx: role of the laryngeal muscles. The role of the laryngeal muscles in the development of neoplastic invasion of the larynx is unknown. The most common laryngeal neoplasms, the laryngeal carcinoma, tends to grow through the lamina propria mucosae into the muscular layer. The penetration of neoplastic growth into the laryngeal muscle is an important step in a patient's subsequent management. The aim of the study was to analyze the histological aspects of the laryngeal neoplasms with respect to the invasion of the laryngeal muscles. Histological samples of the larynx from 867 patients with laryngeal neoplasms were collected. Clinical data and images were recorded. The study included 180 cases (21.6%) with laryngeal carcinoma invading the laryngeal muscles and 587 cases (78.4%) of noninvasive neoplastic laryngeal growth. Laryngeal carcinoma invading the laryngeal muscles was confirmed in 45 (23.6%) of 185 patients. This represents a 3.2% increase in all cases of laryngeal carcinoma, and it represents a 4.0% increase in cases with laryngeal invasion in the male patients. A significant correlation was found between neoplastic invasion of the laryngeal muscles and age ($P = .032$). Patients with laryngeal carcinoma invading the laryngeal muscle showed the following clinical features: mean initial laryngeal tumor size of 2.8 cm (3.4 cm), mean tumor size increase of 1.44 cm (1.7 cm), and local recurrence rate of 16.7% (

Powered by Football™, EA SPORTS FIFA 22 brings the game even closer to the real thing with fundamental gameplay advances and a new season of innovation across every mode. The unique and dynamic “Powered by Football” game engine features improved ball and player physics, and a huge library of real-world football training data to recreate authentic player behavior and player intelligence, and deliver an authentic matchday experience and authentic skill updates. With an all-new game engine, new animation and player models, and the most complete overhaul of the game’s overflow camera system ever seen, FIFA feels more authentic than ever before. The most important facet of FIFA, however, is what’s between the ears. Players use player intelligence (“Psyching”) to put players in positions where they’ll make the best decisions, and they’ll use player movement, positioning, running patterns, and quick thinking to keep their nerves steady and chances alive. The player intelligence features in FIFA have been improved. Experienced players can play FIFA as if they were playing with the ball at their feet. Every movement, tackle and pass decision players make is modeled and calculated on how human players would make them. We also improved our camera system. With this year’s release, we’re introducing a wider field of view - which means that the camera will not always be in a straight line to the ball, and provides an improved visual experience. FIFA 22 includes the following new features: AI We’ve improved the depth of the AI. Put in the right position, players will make better decisions, understand the game and find great moves - and so will you. Another highlight of AI has been the new and improved animations. With the new animation-based system, we’re using the movement, body and skills of players to make them feel more lifelike and natural. The AI now understands how to play in more advanced positions like third and defensive midfield. They’ll connect and distribute the ball intelligently. We’ve also made all-new animations for key passes, incisive passes, through passes and dribbling. The AI’s playmaking ability has been made even better thanks to “live” and updated tactics and playbooks. Decisions will be based on the game and positions players
