"Our objective is for real-life player movement to be a major contributing factor to the creation of more exciting, unpredictable and authentic football. If you want to make the game yourself, we now have a road map to make this possible for all developers," says Seppe Henriques, Creative Director at EA Sports. "If you're a football fan, you're going to love FIFA 22. If you're a developer, this will be an essential tool to help you create your own football games." Full list of gameplay features below: Official Ball Physics : Work with the ball to make the game feel as authentic as possible. Advanced Kick Control (AKC) features new skip and auto-steer controls that allow players to fine-tune the distribution of energy to maximize strength, speed and power. New goalie AI : Improved positioning and reactions give goalkeepers unique responses to all scoring situations. New Penalty Kick Shooting Mechanics : Use movement and anticipation to predict when the goalkeeper will dive. Shoot early or late and finish inside the penalty box. Augmented Reality : Place objects and walls in the real world to change the environment of the game. Create your own stadium, games or even change the objects in the stadium. Experience accurate reflections as you view the real-world stadium on your portable device. New Ball Physics : Real-world physics is the foundation of movement and the forces you experience while controlling your players. Retain the feeling of ball contact while adjusting to unusual conditions. Updated Shot Mechanics : The first touch controls through gameplay to provide a fluid transition between shooting, feinting, and dribbling. Feel the difference between a typical first touch and the power of the heavier, high-velocity shots made possible by the Enhanced First Touch Control (EFTC). An improved system now measures the success of a shot based on how far off the deflection you hit the goal. A new shot control mechanic is also playable so you can preview the angles and trajectories of shots. Multi-Player Touch : Consistent, responsive gameplay with precise reaction times and advanced situational awareness. New Commentary: Reveal the author and game elements as a writer observes to provide a new storytelling tool. Visual Editor and new Star Player: Quickly and easily create your own team. Create up to 100 custom players with unique skills, attributes, animations and reactions, utilizing the new visual editor and Star Player tools.A Guide to the Interiors of Leipzig Through the eyes of the students of the German-Asian-Russian

Features Key:
