In particular what does / does? A: find means search the filesystem recursively. The -name search matches the end of the path to the extension. find prints out the path that matches, like so: $ find /tmp -name '.ext' /tmp/foo.ext /tmp/foo.ext So if you want to see the extension of files matching a given pattern, you use the -name argument like this: $ find /tmp -name '.ext' /tmp/foo.ext /tmp/bar.ext There's more info on find in
