These past two years in Rome have been a whirlwind. For a first-time visitor, staying in Rome feels like staying in a small town that is a part of a larger metropolis. The hotels alone is a tourist trap! To stay in a convenient location, I decided to stay at the Hotel Artemide in the Campo de' Fiori neighborhood. Artemide was commissioned as the Ritz Carlton of Rome. Coffee is Italian and a latte is the national drink. The center of Rome is a 15 minute walk from Artemide. I walked to the Pantheon one morning and with the light rain it was a nice morning walk. Most of the sites are within walking distance. Close by is the Spanish Steps, Trevi Fountain, and Colosseum. You can even go to Castel Sant'Angelo or the Jewish Ghetto. Like many hotels in the area,
