I want to provide a newer one, to the public, that I want to load after page loading. How can I get that widget from the page, and use the other one without interfering? I've tried using the load() function, but it seems to be loading everything, not just the file with the widget. A: If you want to load the widget file into the DIV on your page, call the widget function with no options: `$(function() { // your widget code here });` Or better yet, build the widget with the updated js and then place it right in your page: `var widget_current = null; $(function() { // your widget code here if (widget_current !== null) return; widget_current = $(".myDiv").load("/path/widget.js"); // additional stuff here });` Ridgway should be down here in a week or so. e79caf774b
