ValidateTextBox function and not have to re-initiate the validation. Do I have to handle the ValidateTextBox callback myself or is there a way to use an event that would automatically set MyTextBox.IsValid to true? A: You can do it by subscribe the ValidateTextBox.OnValidating event to the class where the property is defined like this :

public class FormClass { ... public String MyTextBox {get;

OutOfRangeTextBox { get;

    EventHandler OnValidating;
public void ValidateTextBox()
    { if(OnValidating!= null) { OnValidating(this, null); }

    protected override void OnStartup(StartupEventArgs
    e) { base.OnStartup(e); OnValidating += ValidateTextBox; } } New
